EDITORIAL

AGPE The Royal Gondwana Research journal of History, Science, Economics, Political and Social science focuses on how we gain knowledge through innovation and how knowledge encourages new forms of innovation. Not all innovation leads to knowledge. Only enduring innovation that can be generalized across multiple fields creates theory and knowledge. AGPE The Royal Gondwana Research journal welcomes papers on innovations that improve the quality of knowledge or that can be used to develop knowledge. Innovation is a broad concept, covering innovation processes, structures, outcomes, antecedents, and behaviors at the organizational level in the private and public sectors as well as at the individual, national, and professional levels. AGPE The Royal Gondwana Research journal articles explore knowledge related changes that introduce or encourage innovation to promote best practices within society.
